

CANLEY HEIGHTS

fairfield city council

We acknowledge the Dharug People of the Cabrogal Clan as the traditional custodians of the land both past, present and emerging.

Canley Heights is a small suburb nestled near sister suburbs Canley Vale and Cabramatta on the traditional land of the Cabrogal people.

Taking on the vibrancy of its residents, Canley Heights is known for its town centre lined with the colourful shop fronts of small businesses.

A short bus trip from Canley Vale train station along Canley Vale Road, begin your day with a Vietnamese coffee from Canley Heights Corner Café. Take a seat outside and enjoy this sweet coffee while watching the passers-by.

Make your way down the main road slowly. You'll want to explore the Yung Lee Tropical Fruits for their variety of tropical and exotic fresh produce. Stock up on your favourites veggies, or try something new.

Next, head north down Peel Street. You'll find a walking track that crosses Green Valley Creek and follows Orphan School Creek. With plenty of open space, this track is over 10 kilometres long and has plenty of open space. Walk for as long as you wish, before heading back to the town centre for lunch.

Canley Heights is known for its diverse food options. With a Vietnamese population of over 37%, you'll immediately notice the many Vietnamese restaurants along Canley Vale Road. Phuong Nam Noodle House is one great option. We ordered their black herbal duck noodle soup which was incredibly succulent and generous. Their crispy chicken is a must-try signature dish which you can enjoy accompanied by a Vietnamese drink.

Yung Lee Café & Restaurant is another great option for lunch. This cosy restaurant serves authentic and well portioned dishes, specialising in noodle soups and fresh juices using the fruit from next door.

Canley Heights is a great example of the cultural diversity brought by decades of immigration. Home to people from many ethnic backgrounds and traditions, the suburb is a thriving example of harmony well worth your visit.

NIGHTS AT CANLEY HEIGHTS

FAIRFIELD
CITY COUNCIL

Located on Cabrogal people land of the Dharug Nation, Canley Heights is a dining destination in the heart of Western Sydney that becomes more vibrant as the sun goes down. With many venues open until late, Canley Vale Road has earned the reputation of being a buzzing foodie hub perfect for an evening with friends. We've compiled a list of five excellent venues from a diverse range of cultures that are bringing life and flavour into Canley Heights at night.

FABRIKA BY MADERA 264 CANLEY VALE ROAD

@fabrika__bymadera

Serving classic Mediterranean and Balkan food, Fabrika is a product of Canley Heights' strong Balkan influence dating back to immigration waves since the 1960s. Order plenty of meze and traditional Balkan mains, everything is made to be shared. Visit on their monthly live music evenings, and you'll easily find yourself dancing and singing into the night.

HOLY BASIL 233 CANLEY VALE ROAD

@holybasil

Very much an institution in the area, Holy Basil is a decadently styled Lao and Thai restaurant boasting authentic food and plenty of traditional ornaments. Their salads are the perfect accompaniment to the generous portions of cuisine classics including delicious Thai curries and seafood dishes. As the locals know, your meal is not

Fabrika by Madera

complete without their famous fried ice-cream for dessert

SONG HY
230 CANLEY VALE ROAD
@songhyrestaurant

With a strong Vietnamese population, diners are spoilt with dining options along Canley Vale Road. One of these is Song Hy, a popular and authentic Vietnamese restaurant open until eleven on the weekend. Try their signature dish Bun Bo Hue, which is a spicy noodle soup packed with flavour and heat, giving the typical crowd favourite, pho, a run for its money.

KICKIN' INN
209 CANLEY VALE ROAD
@kickininn

Cutlery has been done away with at Kickin' Inn because we all know the struggles of eating crustaceans with a knife and fork! Their extensive Cajun seafood menu includes bay bugs, octopus, lobster, and king prawns – all served straight from the bag covered generously in their famous sauces. This hands-on dining experience is perfect for groups comfortable with messy eating together.

HOTPOT PALACE
45 PEEL STREET
@thehotpotpalace

As soon as you step into Hotpot Palace you'll see shelves lined with fresh produce ready to be dunked into a boiling hotpot of soup. In this cook-it-yourself experience, you can choose from quail eggs, fish balls, thinly sliced wagyu beef, seafood, and noodles as you curate your own feast. Arrive hungry and ready to take as much food as you wish, in this unique buffet experience .

With restaurants from around the globe sitting side by side, this area is truly a tribute to the hard work and dedication of the locals who passionately share and celebrate their culture through generous hospitality.

We've given you five places to explore, but be sure to stroll down Canley Vale Road to discover even more!
